Project financing

matrix strategic solutions
creativity and innovations for growth

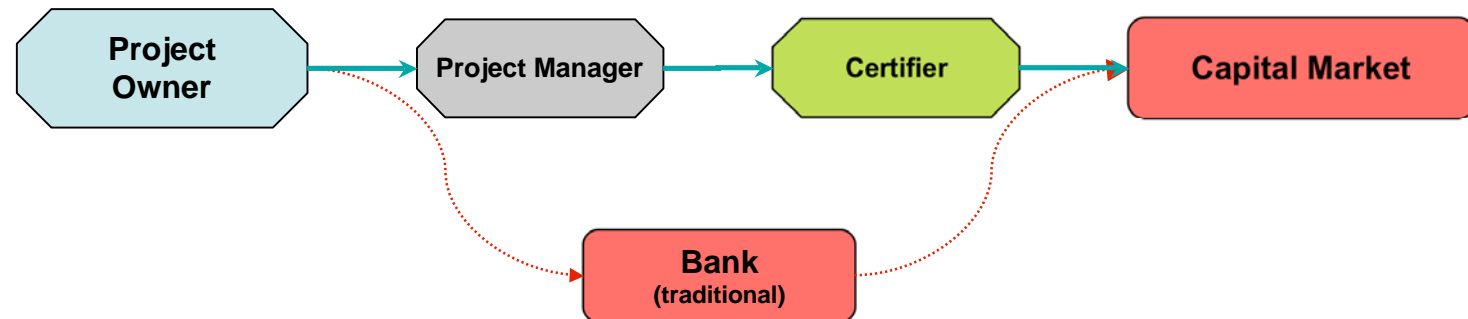

- Growth requires capital.
- Start-up companies require capital.
- Innovations require capital for commercialisation.
- New commercial plants and production facilities require capital.

- The capital market is international, mostly even global.
- Traditional financing systems (banks) shy the risk.
- Venture Capitalist financing risks entrepreneurial development
- Expertise of business in question is not readily available.
- The established system is more like “followers” than “pioneers”
- Access to the capital market is difficult.

Our financing capability

We are able to offer access to the capital market, in order to secure project financing in a similar way that a bank will award a loan, but with different mechanisms.

What does this approach imply?

- Significantly lower certification / process costs (about one tenth)
- Better understanding of project and corresponding markets
- Project is independently rated by an agency
- Holistic project and risk management is applied
- High project financing capability
- Capital availability for approved projects within 3 months
